Reviews

The publication is simple in go through preferable to fully grasp. I am quite late in start reading this one, but better then never. It is extremely difficult to leave it before concluding, once you begin to read the book.

AN INTERDISCIPLINARY APPROACH TO VISUAL PATTERN DETECTION

Condition: New. Publisher/Verlag: LAP Lambert Academic Publishing | Biologically Plausible Pattern Localisation and Parameter Estimation on Visual Data | A key challenge of developing a generic visual pattern detection system is the handling of variability in natural images. Estimation of multiple parameters that describe the pose of objects relative to a previously captured view or model in the images typically requires a search for an optimum in a high dimensional search space. Inspired from a controversial parallel search mechanism in the recent literature, the problem is tackled through a new neural circuitry model called Monte Carlo Map Seeking Circuit (MC-MS). This replaces the regular sampling of transformation parameters in the original Map Seeking Circuit with a probabilistic sampling approach. Another novelty of this work is the 'queuing' approach which serialises the search by a small amount and increases the performance considerably. This serialisation approach can also be considered as a rough estimation to the 'attentional mechanisms' known to exist in primate vision strategy. | Format: Paperback | Language/Sprache: english | 250 gr | 176 pp.
