Brand New Book ***** Print on Demand *****.Excerpt from Word and Sentence Book, Vol. 2: A Graded Course in Spelling The plan of work begun in the former book of this course has been continued and extended in this second book. As in that book, so in this, there are abundant exercises for copying and dictation, many lists of words, and frequent opportunities for practice in the application of the rules for spelling. Punctuation, capitalization, and syllabication receive continued attention. The features specially prominent in this book are the exercises in the use of the dictionary, the study of prefixes, suffixes, and roots, and the excellence of the selections for copying, dictation, and writing from memory. To use a dictionary, directory, encyclopaedia, or similar book of reference, one must know the order of the letters of the alphabet, a knowledge which modern methods of teaching reading have neglected. An endeavor has been made in this book to supply such knowledge if it is wanting and to strengthen it if it is weak. The study of words should not be restricted to their spelling. Their meaning as determined by prefix, suffix, and root should also receive attention. But the etymological meaning of many words has been lost to sight in the customary use of language.
